What is the message?

Prem Rawat, known also by the honorary title Maharaji, brings a unique possibility in everyone's life. "What you are looking for is within you. And if you want to get in touch with it, I can help". His message is more than just words, which he calls Knowledge. Knowledge is a practical way to experience the Peace within. For anyone who is interested, he offers it as a Gift.

Many people offer a message of hope and peace. What is different about Maharaji and his message?

Maharaji recently answered this question by saying: "It is not just a question of a message, but actual experience. I don't just come along and say, 'Everything is great.' I offer a practical way to be able to appreciate every breath. My message is not just words. There is an experience to be had, and I offer the know-how to do that."

If this is a gift, does it cost anything?

There is no charge at any point of time. Maharaji has never charged people for any of his events, or for the knowledge that he offers. All events are arranged through voluntary contributions. Nobody is obligated.

Is this like Yoga, Meditation, or something to do with Religion?

What Maharaji offers is independent of and compatible with any religion. It is not related to any philosophy, belief system, or spiritual path. Knowledge is not about contemplating a thought or mind control. Neither is it meant to improve your physical health. It is a way to feel true joy and contentment in one's life.

MESSAGE

"Every living human being has something wonderful happening inside. Within each person is a supreme beauty. Within each person is peace, joy, the feeling of the heart.

I remind people that life itself is a gift. I encourage people to know that it is possible to open the windows of understanding so they can be fulfilled. I see each human being as complete. Within each one shines a sun so bright that it can make any darkness go away.

What I am proposing is that within each individual is the domain where peace can be found. This is the message that I feel is sorely needed in this world. How important it is for that one message to be accessible to everyone.

More than just words, I offer a practical way to feel the contentment that is already within. My message is neither new nor old—it is timeless. The peace, the contentment that we seek is within. It was, is, and always will be. Now is the time to turn within. What I offer is a gift from one being to another. I want to make this possibility available to people. And if they want to pursue it, I want to help them however I can."
